
David Kolb

Home Bases

Abstract

This essay explores Karsten Harries's claim that it is still possible to build meaningful home bases for identity even in the contemporary world where no fixed traditional identity can dominate the spaces of our lives. Three examples are presented where different strategies were used to reassert traditional identities despite competition, with varying success.

Keywords

Heidegger, Place, Marc Augé, Villa Vizcaya, Wingspread, Sitio Roberto Burle Marx